Customer Reviews

I've been trying to eat a lot more plant-based meals because of all the research on its health and environmental benefits. I also came across Splendid Spoon and wanted to try making some soups on my own. There are so many recipes in here that are way more filling than I thought vegan/gluten-free could be. Some of the recipes are tough to make because of the variety of ingredients required, but generally I think soup is easier to prepare than a lot of other foods in terms of time and effort. And you can always make a bunch for later!

This is a very well written, easy to understand book with awesome recipes that I plan to start this weekend. It makes so much sense and I can't wait to feel the difference in my food cravings.
